

Admissions and Registration Office

The University announced the start of the admission period for the Summer session and announced the online courses that it will be offering for females and males in separate sections as such:

- Offering online courses to high school students, visiting students from other local and international universities, and females and males from the general public in separate online classes.
- Offering %30 reduction on the summer tuition fees.
- Offering a variety of more than 40 online general courses.

Offering online courses from the following majors:

- School of Business and Law
- School of Design and Architecture
- School of Health, Behavioural Sciences and Education
- School of Engineering, Computing, and informatics